

Mother and Grandmother

IREP Magazine's first A&R blesses us with a wonderful message for all the mothers out there. Happy Mothers' Day ladies - you are worthy of all the praises you will receive today!

My Mother, My Grandmother

Two equal parts of my life

There can't be one or the other

Both took the responsibilities

That my dad was supposed to take on

But they were the two that made me gifted and strong

Thank you Mom for bringing me into this Earth

By showing me the importance of caring and joy

All the late nights you worked and had to hustle for us to get by

Just to take care of your baby boy

Thank you Grandmother

For the teenage years when, for a second, I strayed away on my own path

You taught me forgiveness and to forgive myself through God's eyes

Before it would be too late and I will be forced to feel his wrath

I may not have went to college like I wanted

But life is something from me that was never deprived

Because you both gave me the tools I needed

In this world for me to stay alive

You two are my parents. No doubt

And without y’all, I would have never discovered

The importance of love, the importance of life

Thank you Mother, thank you Grandmother

(c)2008 LeJuane Bowens

{moscomment}